Hi, this is Mike at Brookstone. Today I want to show you the secret to great barbecue grilling. It's the Brookstone Grill Alert wireless talking meat thermometer.

It literally takes the guesswork out of grilling by telling you exactly when my food cooked to perfection.

I simply insert the wireless probe into your entrée, select the desired level of doneness. Then I go and enjoy time with my guests.

A wireless monitor shows you current and target cooking temperatures, and will announce when your food is "almost ready" and "ready."

Grill Alert is the stress-free way to ensure my grilled meals are juicy, flavorful and delicious—as well as safely cooked all the way through.

It follows USDA guidelines for doneness temperatures. For red meat, it lets you choose Rare, Medium Rare, Medium or Well Done.

The wireless monitor has a range of up to 300 feet, so I can feel free to relax and mingle with your guests.

Next time you barbecue, don't hover over the grill and worry. Let Grill Alert help you cook to perfection—every time.
